

Crimelab Crossword

Across

2. The Locard _____ principle is based on the fact that clues are often transferred from victim to suspect, or from the suspect to the crime scene.
4. liquids such as kerosene or paint thinner that are often used to start fires
7. the deliberate burning of another's property
8. When a gun is fired, the _____ is driven forward through the barrel.
9. When a hard object comes in contact with a softer object, it will leave a _____.
13. another word for spit, which can be a source of DNA
14. The inside surface of a gun barrel have striations on both the lands and _____.

Down

1. used to weigh a sample of illegal drugs
3. A _____ microscope allows side-by-side examination of two objects.
4. you have 10 of these and they are unique
5. a substance that causes your body to change the way it works
6. molecule found in cells that holds the body's genetic instructions
10. fingerprints that cannot be seen until they are made visible by laboratory techniques
11. The skin on the palms of our hands and soles of our feet is covered with tiny raised lines called friction _____.
12. Shooting into a large tank of _____ is a safe way to obtain fired bullets in the laboratory.